OverPower Homebase

Edition #1

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 2025

Well, howdy-doo, OverPower fanatics! Welcome to the FIRST ever edition of our newsletter, the OverPower Homebase, straight from the minds and hearts of those crazy cats over at Lazarus Rising Games! We're cooking up some mind-blowing stuff, folks, with fulfillment on our Kickstarter campaign underway and TWO brand-new sets currently finishing the initial design process and one of them moving onto our internal playtesting... all I can say is hold onto your cards, because we're about to venture 7 and take things to a whole new level.

We know you've all been champing at the bit, sending in ideas and suggestions for what you want to see—and we hear you loud and clear! We've decided to gather it all in one massively amazing newsletter for your reading pleasure. Every month, we'll bring you strategy tips from the best OverPower players in the game, deck breakdowns from recent tournament winners, exclusive visual spoilers (shh, don't tell anyone!), as well as insider information on future releases, trivia, and anything else we can think of to keep you, the discerning OverPower fan, informed and up to date with all things OverPower.

And let me tell ya, friends, we've got an extra-special treat in the works—a Letter Page! That's right, I'm talking about a good ol' fashioned paper-and-pen, send-us-your-thoughts, direct-from-you-to-us kind of deal. Think of it like a nostalgic throwback to my childhood hero Stan Lee's old Marvel Soapbox days! Whether it's a question, a suggestion, or a just a shout-out, we wanna hear from YOU. The one catch, you have to mail it in to us at: Lazarus Rising Games—2193 Commonwealth Ave, #136 Brighton MA 02135.

Now, speaking of dreams coming true, working with the legendary Edgar Rice Burroughs team to bring the ERB and World Legends OverPower to life has been a dream for all of us. And we couldn't have done it without each and every one of YOU, our fantastic fans. Your enthusiasm and support have made it all possible—and we're just getting started! We hope what we've got in store for you starting in 2025 will live up to every one of your wildest expectations!

So buckle up OverPower fans, because this is just the beginning. 'Til next month—keep playing, keep winning, and above all VENTURE WELL!

DISPATCH DIARIES

OverPower has officially gone into full production with our printing partner Cartamundi! Flow Wrap is spinning, sheets are being cut, and boxes of the first set of OverPower are coming off the line as you read this! In spite of the small hiccup with the survey process on Kickstarter, we are still on target to have cards in your hands starting early April! And the proofs we've seen look insanely beautiful if we do say so ourselves!

Additionally, everyone who backed the kickstarter should have already gotten access to our exclusive Edgar Rice Burroughs and the World Legends limited edition Digital Wallpapers. If you haven't yet, email us at: office@lazarusrising.games.

Contained within this very newsletter are two articles that should have OP fans jumping for joy. They're 'how to' articles prepared by Lazarus Rising Games very own James Sanderson and Lys Fulda! James Sanderson is a name you will come to know well if you're a retailer or playing in our organized play, and is Lazarus Rising Games Lead Distribution and Organized Play Manager. Lys Fulda is our marketing extraordinaire guru, and there aren't enough positive adjectives to describe how she is elevating your OverPower experience. If you're interested in our Judge Program please check out our article, linked below, and if you're more interested in spreading the game as far as possible read our article, also linked below, about becoming an OverPower Ambassador!

At the heart of any game like OverPower is its community and we're going to be counting on you to be our partners in good will and kindness as we spread this game we love to a whole new generation of venturers!

What it takes to be an OverPower Champion—Andrew “The Prodigy” Taylor

Andrew Taylor reflects on his relatively short OverPower journey, highlighting lessons from Valhalla and his success at the Battle for Boston 2024. As one of the newer players to the game, Andrew wanted to make a name for himself and play a deck that went against the Meta and other prevailing wisdom. He certainly shook things up, building a teamwork centric deck with Galactus on the front line with two negators. Before this, Galactus was considered an unplayable character, so read how Andrew examined the Meta and how he built a deck that took out a field of over 40 of the best OP players in the game.

Favorite Superhero

Wolverine. The X-Men got me into comics and games as a kid. As a scrawny kid, I related to Wolvie's resilience and toughness. The animated series led me to comics, and I'd bike to the local shop to dive into new stories. It sparked my love for art and reading, which I still enjoy.

First Game Love

Gaming started with an NES in the '80s, but OverPower became my obsession in high school. My brother and I played nonstop, and I even became the #1 ranked player at 14-15, traveling for tournaments. Though it faded for a while, I rediscovered it years later and jumped back in, rekindling that first love.

Dice Bag Color

I don't have a custom bag, but my dice are unique—they all have symbols like the Infinity Gauntlet instead of 6s. They often confuse people, which I jokingly use to my advantage.

Playing with Friends

OverPower is a family game for me—my dad even learned it to join our tourney days growing up. It brought us closer and introduced us to lifelong friends. Beyond OverPower, I love poker, Sekiro, League of Legends, Street Fighter 6, and wish Marvel vs. Capcom would make a comeback.
